

TOWN AND COUNTY.

WEDNESDAY MORNING, July 2, 1879.

TERMS OF THE NEWS AND HERALD.—Tri-weekly edition, four dollars per annum, in advance; weekly edition, two dollars and fifty cents per annum, in advance. Liberal discount to clubs of five and upwards.

RATES OF ADVERTISING.—One dollar per inch for the first insertion, and fifty cents per inch for each subsequent insertion. These rates apply to all advertisements, of whatever nature, and are payable strictly in advance. Contracts for three, six or twelve months made on very liberal terms. Transient local notices, fifteen cents per line for the first insertion, and seven and one-half cents per line for each subsequent insertion. Obituaries and tributes of respect charged as advertisements. Simple announcements of marriages and deaths published free of charge, and solicited.

All communications, of whatsoever nature, should be addressed to the Winnsboro Publishing Company, Winnsboro, S. C.

New Advertisements.—Tribute of Respect.—T. H. Ketchin, Secretary.

WITHDRAWAL.—We are requested to state that Captain Hayne McMeekin has withdrawn from the race for sheriff.

During the rain Sunday, lightning shattered several telegraph poles in front of the passenger depot. It was a judgment for moving that office.

THE TWELFTH REGIMENT.—The full report of the meeting of the survivors of this veteran regiment, have been crowded out and will appear in our next issue.

A mad dog ran a muck in the Waterbury country one day last week. It bit a number of dogs and other animals in its course. One colored boy is said to have been bitten in the hand.

The railroad war has assumed the shape of a regular campaign. Our merchants have raised the "black" flag, and are determined to fight it on that line, if it takes both summer and winter.

"Pinafore" is being rehearsed frequently now, although no time has been as yet, fixed for its presentation to the public. We have no doubt but that quite a treat is in store for the community.

We are pleased to learn that Mr. H. C. Davis, Jr., of this county, has been fully admitted to the United States Military Academy at West Point, having passed successfully both the physical and literary examinations.

RAIN.—A refreshing rain fell in Winnsboro on Sunday, after a drought of eight weeks. Reports from all parts of the county save a few, are very unfavorable for early corn. Cotton is not hurt, and the late corn may do something.

We call attention to the communication this morning on the subject of freights. Our correspondent is correct in saying that his class, the farmers, are deeply interested in the matter, as their welfare depends upon the cotton market.

Rev. J. Walter Dickson one of the professors of the Methodist Female College at Columbia, spent a few days in town this week. He is at present filling Dr. McVardie's Quarterly Conference appointments, during Dr. M.'s absence from the State.

Many an old Confederate's heart in Fairfield will be saddened at hearing of the death of Gen. R. H. Anderson, which occurred at Beaufort a few days since. We will at another time speak at length of the character and eminent services of General Anderson.

The trade in blackberries and plums is still very brisk, and keeps small change actively in circulation. By the by, we know of a gentleman who is desirous of buying a large quantity of berries, and if those having them for sale, will call on our "devil" his name will be given.

Those who suffer from nervous irritations, itching, uneasiness and the discomfort that follows from an enfeebled and disordered state of the system, should take Ayer's Sarsaparilla and cleanse the blood. Purge out the lurking distemper that undermines the health, and constitutional vigor will return.

PERSONAL.—Mr. Earle M. Jennings of the Augusta Chronicle and Sentinel, has visited Winnsboro in the interest of his paper. We have before expressed our opinion that our Augusta contemporary is one of the liveliest papers in the land. Its editorial columns are especially crisp and forcible. Colonel Randall's letters from Washington are highly commended.

ASHURST.—We are in receipt of a copy of this excellent story in pamphlet form by Messrs. Rindall & Dawson, proprietors of the News and Courier. Those who have not read this story or desire to preserve it in a more convenient form will do well to purchase a copy at once. It will be furnished through the post office free of postage at twenty-five cents per copy.

FURMAN UNIVERSITY.—The closing exercises of this institution were very attractive. Maj. T. W. Woodward's address elicited hearty applause, and received very favorable notice from all the parpurs. It will be given in a future issue. Among the students who were distinguished we find two of Fairfield's sons. D. J. Meador, of Shelton, S. C., in English literature, geometry, logic, and physics; and H. J. Duke, of Ridgeway, S. C., in Junior Latin, composition and rhetoric, and algebra.

A NEW COUNTERFEIT.—A telegram from Washington says information has reached the Secret Service division of the Treasury Department that a new counterfeit five-dollar legal-tender note has made its appearance. It is of the series of 1875, and bears the names of Allison, Register, and Wyman, Treasurer. It is executed on a printed imitation of fibre paper, which is lighter than the genuine. The portrait of Jackson is good, but the general appearance of the note is bad. Bankers pronounce it a dangerous counterfeit.

CLERKS AND STARS.—A special meeting of the Town Council was held on the 24th instant to hear charges against Tom Cook and Redick McClure, for disorderly conduct on the night of the 23rd. The charges being fully proved both by the statements of the prisoners, and also by disinterested witnesses, the Council imposed a fine of five dollars on each of the offenders, failing to pay which, to go to jail for ten days. These parties have been up before on a similar charge, and they should be severely dealt with if the offense is again committed.

MAJ. T. W. WOODWARD.—A correspondent of the Register writing from Greenville about the commencement Exercises said: "It was my happiness to be present this morning to hear Hon. Thomas W. Woodward's oration before the literary societies of Furman University. His audience was as appreciative a one as Greenville affords, and his effort was a great success. His subject was 'History,' and he succeeded in making what is ordinarily considered a dry subject the basis of a most patriotic and interesting oration. He kept the close attention of the audience throughout its delivery, and his practical discourse to the young men met on all sides repeated and heart-felt applause. Major Woodward is a fine looking man, graceful speaker, and his words this morning glowed with true morality and burning patriotism."

THE OLD SIXTH.—The committee of arrangements, appointed at the last meeting of the Survivors, consisting of ten members, met in the Town Hall on Tuesday, the 24th of June, for the purpose of getting the matter in shape, so as to proceed in their work of getting up an entertainment for their old comrades in arms on the first Thursday in August next. On motion of Colonel Rion the committee was divided into sub-committees with instructions to report again to the committee of the whole on the first day of July. The committee on rooms for serving the dinner consists of Jas. A. Brice, W. H. Kerr and S. R. Fant. Maj. T. W. Woodward, Capt. H. A. Gaillard, R. E. Ellison, Jr., and W. M. Nelson were appointed a committee on reception. Col. J. H. Rion and R. M. Dunlevy constitute the committee on music for the occasion. The committee on speaking room are W. H. Kerr, R. E. Ellison, Jr., and W. R. Garrison. On motion the recording secretary was instructed to write to, or inform in any other way, the members of the committees on subscriptions in the different townships to proceed at once to work and ascertain what can be done by each one in the way of money and provisions, and that they make a report to the quarterly meeting on the 11th of July, when definite action will be taken in the matter.

A TERRIBLE TRAGEDY.

Mr. John E. English, of Columbia Killed by a Police-Man—A Reminiscence of the Next Morning.

On Sunday night in Columbia Mr. John E. English became engaged in an altercation with Policeman Wm. Rose, and was struck in the head, receiving a wound from which he died early Monday morning. The evidence taken before the coroner's jury was somewhat conflicting, but the facts seem to be that Mr. English met Policemen Rose and Daniels in front of Mr. David's grocery on Assembly street, and some words ensued. Policeman Rose denies that he struck him, but witnesses testify that they heard the blow of a club, and that Daniels told those not to strike him again. Mr. English fell insensible, and the policemen took him over to the guardhouse. Attempts to recover him failed, when a physician was sent for. The injured man was taken to the Central Hotel where he died shortly after. Dr. Talley testified that he died of an injury to the brain from external violence. The coroner's jury found that he died from a blow on the head "inflicted by some person or persons unknown."

The next morning, says the Register, Captain Radcliffe, Chief of Police, appeared at the office of Trial Justice Marshall and made affidavit that Mr. J. M. English, the brother of the deceased, had threatened to shoot Policeman Rose on sight, and asked for a warrant for his arrest and to have him bound over to keep the peace. Justice Marshall issued the warrant, and delivered it to his constable, Mr. John H. Altee, to be served. Mr. Altee started to the Central Hotel to arrest Mr. J. M. English. After Mr. Altee had left the office, Justice Marshall directed Policeman Rose, who was present with Policemen Daniels, to go home and receive Mr. Altee at the hotel. Mr. Altee stopped the carriage. They invited him to ride with them to the office. He got in the carriage telling Mr. English that he had a warrant for his arrest, and that the policemen had given bond to keep the peace. They went out of the office, but it seems from what followed that Justice Marshall's advice was disregarded. Mr. Altee met Col. Wallace's carriage at the Wheeler House, containing Mr. English, Col. Wallace and the colored driver. They were on their way to Mr. English's office to take out a warrant for Policeman Rose. Mr. Altee stopped the carriage. They invited him to ride with them to the office. He got in the carriage telling Mr. English that he had a warrant for his arrest, and that the policemen had given bond to keep the peace. They went out of the office, but it seems from what followed that Justice Marshall's advice was disregarded. Mr. Altee met Col. Wallace's carriage at the Wheeler House, containing Mr. English, Col. Wallace and the colored driver. They were on their way to Mr. English's office to take out a warrant for Policeman Rose.

As the carriage turned the corner by Law's drug, Policemen Rose and Daniels were standing on Polkoto's corner, and as soon as the carriage came opposite them the firing of pistols began. Mr. English firing from the carriage and both policemen firing at the carriage. Accounts differ as to which fired first. At least five shots were fired altogether. No one fired from the carriage but Mr. English.

As soon as Mr. English drew his pistol Mr. Altee grasped the hand of which he held it, and the driver caught the other hand. After some struggling Mr. English succeeded in getting his hand out of the carriage, and fired still his pistol, for some reason, would shoot no longer. From the appearance of the pistol seemed that he fired three times. Mr. English says he had all the time regarded Mr. Daniels with especially friendly feelings, as, although he did not know him personally, he heard that Daniels had interfered and prevented Rose from striking his brother officer, and he had been inquiring for him in order to get a true statement of the matter from him; he did not know that the policeman, with Rose was Daniels, and he saw both policemen draw their pistols before he drew his. By the time Mr. English could fire the first shot the carriage had proceeded as far as in front of the building known as the "office." The horse became frightened by the firing and ran past the Trial Justice's office, and could not be stopped till he reached the court house corner, half a square away.

It seems almost miraculous that no one was killed, as there were four persons in the carriage. Mr. Altee fell from the carriage and was picked up in a senseless condition and taken to Mr. Marshall's office. For some time it was thought that he was shot and killed, but after an examination it was concluded that he was only stunned by a blow on the head received in falling. The last night, however, Dr. Turnipseed having made a further examination, expressed the opinion that the concussion on his head had been caused by a pistol bullet grazing it. We were glad to learn that he was doing well and his wound was not considered dangerous.

Mr. English was arrested and required to give a bond of $500 to keep the peace. Policeman Rose was also arrested and lodged in jail on the charge of murder in killing Mr. John English, and Policeman Daniels was also required to give a bond of $500 to appear before Justice Marshall next Wednesday and answer to the charge of assault and battery with intent to kill. A second warrant was also issued against Mr. J. M. English on a similar charge.

THE NATIONAL CAPITAL.

Observations from One who has Just Returned from Headquarters.

RIDGEWAY, June 28.—Fresh from Washington, it is presumed that a few items concerning affairs at the capital would not be wholly uninteresting, although the dullness consequent upon the heated term had become marked, both in business and fashionable circles. Many of the "birds of pleasure," who annually flit North or South with the change of seasons, had already left, and others were going "when Congress adjourns." That body had become pretty well "fagged out," and most of the members were heartily desiring to get through with the business before them and go home; and, in fact, were on the eve of adjourning, but Mr. Hayes' veto of the "judicial bill" may have the effect of prolonging their stay for some time, or even to the regular session in December. Should they adjourn now, it would throw the responsibility for the stoppage of the courts upon the executive. Mr. Hayes based his objections to the bill on the deputy marshal's clause. The policy indicated by the Democrats is to separate the bill into two measures: one providing for the courts and the other for United States marshals, but not for election marshals.

In this way Mr. Hayes can find no objections to the new judicial bill, and the fight will be narrowed down to the election marshals and the test oath.

Two incidents in Congress has been the subject of conversation on the streets and in the hotels for the past few days: one the Lamar-Conkling affair, in which the former squelched the New York bully in such a way, and the other a crushing exposure of Republican plans, through the mistake of one of their own members, in regard to the former, the country knows enough, and may rest assured that Conkling cannot continue to play the bully. He has seemed to be especially bitter against the Southern members in the present Congress, and is evidently riled that he has found his match in several of them, while his over-zealous disposition has been a hostility to him on several occasions, not only among the Democrats, but the men of his own party.

The other affair is perhaps not so well known, and we give it: a prominent Republican mistaking Hon. Oscar Turner, of Kentucky, for one of his own faith, endeavored to obtain his pecuniary assistance to keep the National View, a so-called Greenback organ, alive, but the latter exposed the affair, which may have the effect of causing the View to be viewed no more.

The recent attack of a Washington correspondent, charging several Southern members—among them Congressmen Evans and Allen—with a disposition to neglect the public welfare, does not do these latter gentlemen justice. They have conscientiously and faithfully discharged their duties, and, though they have not always pleased all, they have always had the support of sound men in any line of policy they have advocated, and to Senators Hampton and Butler, no one who is acquainted with their characters can believe that they have ever been lacking in zeal to promote the best interests of the State. Already Governor Hampton is a positive force in the caucuses which shape the policy of the Democratic party.

There is, however, one custom in Congress which is to be strongly condemned, namely, the custom of "pairing," and then leaving the city; for, although a member may not lose his vote by this action, his party loses the benefit of his assistance in their deliberations, and this can work material injury.

As this is the season of college commencements, an opportunity was lately presented of taking observations, in respect to the work, etc., of the Normal School of Washington, designed for educating students for teachers. One striking feature of the school was the strict attention given to drawing and penmanship. In this department over five hundred specimens were shown, and the character of the work was such as to impress one with the belief that we in the South pay too little attention to this department of instruction, forgetting that in very many instances a man's success in life will depend largely upon the mechanical execution of his work.

It is rumored that Dr. Mary Walker intends to do some breeches; but it is hoped for obvious reasons, that the good doctor will not subject the National Capital to the infliction.

South Carolinians should be cautious about going to Washington to get positions in government departments, for it is said, on good authority, that the present managers are not disposed to employ Southerners unless they are shining lights of the Radical party, and that there are employees in the treasury getting the benefits of the appointment law by claiming to be from this State, but are, in fact, non-residents, while deserving applicants—true residents—are turned out in the cold; and although these facts are known to the heads of the department, no attempts are made to right their wrongs.

Perhaps it may interest our agricultural friends to learn that the crop prospects in Virginia are about up to the average. No tobacco was to be seen as far as about Culpeper, and the corn appeared to be needing rain. From there to Danville the prospects were more encouraging, such that each man may be able to offer his neighbor a loaf and a quid. The small grain was all cut but standing "shocked" in the fields. Darkness shut out the view soon after leaving Danville.

PALMETTO.

While strolling over his estate in the mountains near Avila, with his young wife, the Duke of Medina-Celi, the Premier Peer and grandee of Spain accidentally stumbled over his gun, receiving the contents of both barrels in his body, and was terribly wounded. He waited for help, leaning on the Duchess until succor came, but despite the assistance of the local surgeon and of the eminent army surgeons sent immediately from Madrid by special train, the Duke expired in a few hours. He was twenty-eight years of age, and was married twice, his first marriage being with the daughter of the Duchess Alba, a niece of the Empress Eugenie. He was married again last year to the daughter of the Marquis Torrecilla. His fate caused a great sensation in Madrid, the King expressing his sympathy with the widow, who is only nineteen years old.

A CHEERFUL FACE.—Mr. — comes to be the victim of an accident, and as they are placing him on a stretcher to carry him up stairs from the back, he summons the servant girl, an honest young peasant, and tells her: "My dear —, carry me upstairs, but don't give her a shock—put on a cheerful face while you are telling her."

"The faithful domestic discharges her mission with enthusiasm, and remarks, in a husky voice:—"My master sent me—he! he! he! he! to tell you that—ha! ha! ha! ha!—he had—ha! ha! ha! ha!—he had—(here, I've burst my stay laces)—he had—it was too funny and I've laughed till my sides are sore—he had broken his leg—ha! ha! ha! ha! (Rolls over on the carpet in ecstasies of laughter.)"

—The case of James Currie, charged with the murder of Benj. C. Porter, the actor, was called at Marshall, Texas, Monday. The prosecution announced its readiness for trial. Most of their witnesses were present, including Maurice Barrymore, of New York. The defense offered affidavits from five witnesses by whom they expected to prove self-defense, and moved for continuance. The prosecution submitted a full answer, with affidavits, showing that Barrymore, Porter, Miss Cummins and the restaurant keeper were the only persons present at the shooting. The motion of the defense was sustained, however, and the continuance granted.

TRIBUTE OF RESPECT.

At a special meeting of the Garden Light Infantry, held at Company headquarters on Monday, June 24th, the following preamble and resolutions were unanimously adopted:

Whereas, our beloved comrade, private B. B. GERIG, has been suddenly removed from our midst by the messenger, death, and,

Whereas, we submit with awe to the decrees, and trust the wisdom of our almighty and all-wise Creator who has seen fit to afflict us with the sorrow which the removal of our brother soldier causes us, therefore be it

Resolved, that in the death of Private B. B. GERIG, this Company has sustained the loss of a lamented and worthy member.

Resolved, that we tender to his bereaved family our most heartfelt sympathy.

Resolved, that a page in our minute book be inscribed to his memory, that a copy of these resolutions be sent to the afflicted family, and that they be published in The News and Herald.

APPLETON'S AMERICAN CYCLOPEDIA.

NEW REVISED EDITION. ENTIRELY REWRITTEN BY THE ABLEST WRITERS ON EVERY SUBJECT. Printed from New Type, and Illustrated with several thousand Engravings and Maps.

THE AMERICAN CYCLOPEDIA.

Within the last twenty years the progress of discovery in every department of knowledge has made a new work of reference an imperative want. The movement of political affairs has kept pace with the discoveries of science, and their fruitful application to the industrial and useful arts and the convention and refinement of social life. Great wars and consequent revolutions have occurred, involving national changes of peculiar moment. The civil war of our own country, which was at its height when the latest volume of the old work appeared, has happily been ended, and a new course of commercial and industrial activity has been commenced.

Large accessions to our Geographical Knowledge have been made.

The great political revolutions of the last decade, with the natural result of the lapse of time, have brought into public view a multitude of new men, whose names are in every one's mouth, and of whose lives every one is curious to know the particulars. Great battles have been fought and important sieges maintained, of which the details are as yet preserved only in the newspapers or in the transient publications of the day, but which ought now to Take their place in Permanent and Authentic History.

In preparing the present edition for the press, it has accordingly been the aim of the editors to bring down the information to the latest possible date, and to furnish an accurate account of the most recent discoveries in science, of every fresh production in literature, and of the newest inventions in the practical arts, as well as to give a succinct and original Record of the Progress of Political and Historical Events.

The work was begun after long and careful preliminary labor, and with the most ample resources for carrying it on to a successful termination.

None of the original stereotype plates have been used but Every Page has been Printed on New Type, forming, in fact a new Cyclopaedia, with the same plan and compass as its predecessor, but with a far greater pecuniary expenditure, and with improvements in its composition as have been suggested by longer experience and enlarged knowledge.

The illustrations which are introduced for the first time in the present edition, have been added not for the sake of pictorial effect, but to give greater lucidity and force to the explanation in the text. They embrace all branches of science and of natural history, and depict the most famous and remarkable features of scenery, architecture, and art, as well as the various processes of mechanics and manufactures. Although intended for instruction rather than embellishment,

No Pains have been spared to insure their artistic Excellence.

The cost of their execution is enormous, and it is believed they will find a welcome reception as an admirable feature of the Cyclopaedia, and worthy of its high character.

THE AMERICAN CYCLOPEDIA is now complete in sixteen large octavo volumes, each volume containing over eight hundred pages, fully illustrated with several thousand Wood Engravings, and with numerous Colored Lithographic Maps, the whole costing the publishers a sum exceeding five hundred thousand dollars, exclusive of paper, printing and binding.

The best Cyclopaedia ever published, one that will support all others, is now offered to the public at a very moderate price. A saving of ten cents per day, the price of a cigar, or many other expenditures for luxuries or frivolities of a like amount, would pay for a complete set of the Cyclopaedia by a bi-monthly subscription. Thus there will be something substantial saved, and a storehouse of knowledge, in fact a universal library in itself, secured, with but little effort or sacrifice.

Specimen pages of The American Cyclopaedia, showing type, illustrations, etc., will be sent gratis on application. Persons wishing to subscribe can receive the whole set at once, or one or more volumes at any time, the delivery suiting their convenience, without any cost of carriage, by forwarding their address to D.
